Carolyn is a woman on a mission...

...to change the stunted view we have of business; a limiting view that puts profit as the driving purpose of business instead of the outcome.

Carolyn believes business can and should be a powerful force for good in society.
Her purpose is to make meaningful purpose – Social Purpose – a vital part of business in Australia and beyond.

Her conviction for meaningful business purpose has led her to becoming an activist for Social Purpose. “Profit with Purpose” is her guiding mantra.

She has published two books on the subject and launched a podcast. She’s a passionate speaker and advocate for purpose-led businesses. FOR LOVE & MONEY BOOK & PODCAST

Purpose in business has become a common expectation, from employees, customers and investors. Yet many business leaders struggle to understand what it means for their business.

For Love & Money - Carolyn's latest book - offers clarity on the most recent evolution of organisational purpose. It equates the demand for purpose in business with social purpose. Business as a force for good. Sharing inspiration from businesses such as Intrepid Travel, Outland Denim, Patagonia, Unilever, PayPal and Future Super, this book makes a powerful connection between the two things that drive social purpose-led businesses (which are inextricably linked):

LOVE. Of people, planet and humanity. It's the raw emotion behind purpose. And MONEY. Profit and commercial success.

Why are they interlinked? Because when purpose drives profit, it offers a business the ability to play a bigger game; to be ambitious in the change you seek to create over the long term. Meanwhile you build a meaningful business for everyone involved; you attract passionately invested employees, customers, partners, suppliers and investors; and you build trust, the currency of a valued business.

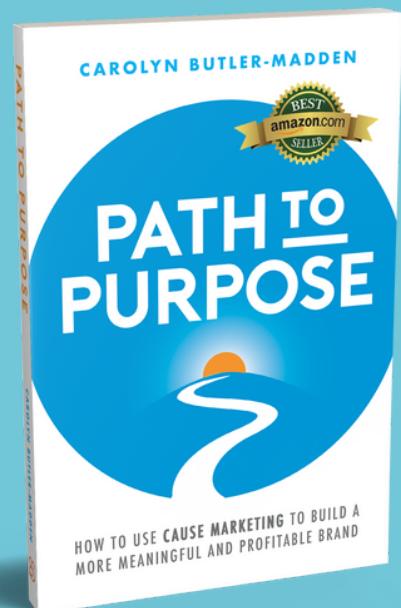

The Podcast expands on the book, featuring interviews with inspiring purposeful business leaders and sharing insights and inspiration.
